

I notice the job description and company name appear to be blank in your submission. I want to make sure I write you a genuinely useful, specific cover letter rather than something generic.

Could you please provide:

1. Company name - Who are you applying to?
2. Job description - The actual responsibilities, requirements, and any details about the team or product

With those details, I can write a cover letter that speaks directly to what this specific company is building, references their actual tech stack or product challenges, and positions your Rails/Elasticsearch/React background in a way that feels tailored rather than templated.

If you paste the job description, even a partial one, I'll get to work right away.
